He received the jersey directly from Ancelotti at one of the tournaments, but cannot remember when. Italy wore these shirts at both tournaments. What is striking about Ancelotti's shirt, however, is the Italian association logo sewn on relatively high. This can be seen on Ancelotti's shirts at UEFA Euro 1988 and at the Italy versus England 3rd place match at the 1990 World Cup. There is a photo from the 3rd place match at the 1990 World Cup that suggests the tearing at the collar (for licensing reasons we cannot show the picture). Ancelotti won numerous national and international titles, including the European Champion Clubs' Cup twice as a player and the Champions League three times as a coach. In both roles, he achieved his greatest successes with AC Milan. Ancelotti is the only coach so far to have won the championship in all five of Europe's top leagues (England, Spain, Germany, Italy and France).

The print as well as the paper corresponds to technique and paper that were used in 1930. Approximately 99% of the tickets on sale are forgeries. Ever since 2012, there has been a second generation of forgeries which come from Uruguay, too. These look better than the first generation because they now have the missing „er“ after the number „1“. They actually look like an original ticket yet there is one difference to the original ticket. Plus there are great forgeries which are printed on modern paper. Unfortunately there are collectors who believe that these forged tickets are the only original tickets. These are serious collectors who unfortunately don't know much about printing techniques or paper manufacturing. These so called „original“ tickets were produced in 2005 and methodically planted into the market. These forgeries are extremely rare and of high quality yet they are (fortunately) printed on modern paper - other than other forged tickets. The ticket on sale comes with a lifelong AGON-Sportsworld certificate of authenticity and a lifelong guarantee to get your money back.

Silver-grey-red shirt, the so-called „Wiener-Modell“ (Simmet-Alle Bayern Trikots; page 27) with lacing. Status: ACC. Long-sleeved shirt; size S; 5 lacing holes. Without number and club emblem, this shirt was worn without number and club emblem (no traces of sewn-on holes to be found). Stitching under armpit; slight discolouration in the lacing area (due to the waxing process, discolouration of the red colour of the lacing). The so-called „Wiener Variante“ (Vienna variant) with silver-grey and wine-red fabric was worn by FC Bayern München from 1931 to 1965 in different variations. Also without club emblem. This shirt was used without a number only until 1948. From the 1948/49 season onwards, FC Bayern usually played with numbers, only in some matches without. From 1949 onwards, it was generally used with a shirt number. We date the present shirt to the period 1936-1948, but due to a lack of comparative pieces, no more precise dating can be given. The manufacturing characteristics and fabrics hint towards this period

Status: ACC. Short-sleeved cotton shirt. This version of the shirt was only worn in a few matches between 1957 and 1959, e.g. 1957 v Poland or 1958 v Egypt. The design of the shirt is identical to the shirts for the 1958 World Cup, yet the white World Cup shirts had a different variant of the DFB logo. The present variant of the DFB logo can be found on the green shirts that were taken to the 1958 World Cup but were not used. The striking feature is the typical light cotton weave of the fabric, made for high temperatures, and the flexible black stretch arm cuffs. This shirt might have been worn at the friendly match against Egypt on 28th December 1958, but we could not verify this. This is probably a „Leuzela“ shirt, but the laundry tag is missing. Only a small fabric label saying „6“ (size indication of the shirt) is present. Sewn on, embroidered linen logo of the DFB, 8 lacing holes. Sewn-on linen number. Two small tears due to game use. Since then the painting has been in the possession of the seller and has not been exhibited since! Fred Engelbert Knecht (1934-2010, Zurich, Switzerland). Nature and its destruction are the thematic focus of Knecht's pictorial work in all creative phases. He became known for his „jungle paintings“ in the style of Magic Realism. „In the 1990s, Knecht's oeuvre shows an intensive engagement with art history: on the one hand, motifs of famous works of art are allusive transposed into modern life worlds (Rudolf Koller's Gotthard Post on Motorway), on the other hand, Knecht imitates forms of representation, styles and painting techniques of revered artists (series on Magritte, van Gogh, Henri Rousseau). As in the jungle paintings, Knecht uses these suggestive reworkings and paraphrases to create a critique of time grounded in ambiguous irony“ (Sikart). This painting, an allusion to Leonardo da Vinci's „Last Supper“ (Jesus with his 12 apostles) here 13 players of the VfB Stuttgart are celebrating the championship, dates from this phase. Acrylic paintings by Knecht can be found in numerous museums and are traded at international auctions. Prices for pictures in this size range from 1.000.- to 4.000.-. Picture is without frame and can be re-stretched.
